CHINA

'Dog-beating stick': General Zhang Aiping's contribution to the modernisation of China's nuclear force and strategy since 1977/ Lei Liu

Cold War History: Vol 18, No. 4, November 2018, pp.485-501

This article is on the breakthrough of the development of strategic nuclear weapons and employment policy led by the second generation of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP). By the middle 1980s, the Chinese military had successfully developed China's first generation of intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM), submarine-launched ballistic missiles (SLBM), and communication satellites, which provided China with an elementary and limited second-strike capability.

CYBER WARFARE

Cyber: A global weapon/ Angus Batey

Asian Military Review: Vol.26, Issue 8, December 2018, pp.22-26 (60)

This article examines the state-owned cyber operations conducted by North Korea, Russia and China (PLAN's Unit 61398).

DENUCLEARISATION

Extending new Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty is in America's National Security Interest/ Frank Klotz

Arms Control Today: Vol.49, No.1, January/February 2019, p.06-12 (5)

On December 4, 2018, the United States officially declared that Russia's ongoing violation of the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces (INF) Treaty constitutes a material breach of the treaty and that the United States will suspend its obligations under the treaty in 60 days unless Russia returns to full and verifiable compliance. Viable alternatives are also discussed in this article.

DENUCLEARISATION

The Guterres disarmament agenda/ Randy Rydell

Arms Control Today: Vol.49, No.1, January/February 2019, pp.20-25 (5)

This article is on the disarmament agenda by UN Secretary-General António Guterres with an address at the University of Geneva on May 24, 2018. The article analyses three priorities of the agenda, the obstacles it faces and UN shortcomings in advancing the disarmament.

After the INF Treaty, what is next?

Arms Control Today: Vol.49, No.1, January/February 2019, pp.26-29 (5)

If the 1987 Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces (INF) Treaty collapses in 2019, the United States, key U.S. allies, and Russia will face critical questions of how to respond, including whether to develop and deploy new intermediate-range missile systems and whether to seek restraint measures to prevent a renewed missile race in Europe and beyond. More in this article.

The nuclear test ban and the verifiable denuclearization of North Korea/ Lassina Zerbo

Arms Control Today: Vol.48, No.9, November 2018, pp.06-09 (5)

On October 7, the U.S. Department of State issues a readout which indicates that Kim Jong Un "invited inspectors to visit the Punggye-ri nuclear test site to confirm that it has been irreversibly dismantled". Although the declared closure is welcomed, those present lacked the skills and equipment to confirm it. The author highlights that verification by Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty Organization is key to permanently ending nuclear test explosions in North Korea. More in this article.

JAPAN

Political change in America and implications for the US-Japan alliance/ James L. Schoff

Asia-Pacific Review: Vol 25, No. 2, November 2018, pp.45-63

This article examines the domestic political dynamics behind US president Donald Trump's 'America First'• approach to trade and foreign policy, to understand better how long this strain of American economic nationalism might last and what it means for Japan's national security strategy.

KOREA

The Trump-Kim Summit, Future Scenarios, and Japan's Policy toward the Korean Peninsula/ Narushige Michishita

Asia-Pacific Review: Vol 25, No. 2, November 2018, pp. 64-74

This article covers the US-DPRK Summit Meeting and future scenarios, opportunities and risks for Japan, moving forward on Japan-North Korea talks and what's next for Japan.

LEADERSHIP

Set the strategy and let the team succeed/ Lt. Gen. Aundre F. Piggee

Army Sustainment: January - March 2019, pp.04-05 (74)

This interview stresses the philisophy of mission command is essential to drive improvement in logistics readiness. In this interview the Lt. Gen shares his mission command practice and the culture of mission command. Also in this issue of Army Sustainment it covers the sustainment of mission command.

LEADERSHIP

Command climate and ethical behaviour/ Col Brian Kerl

Marine Corps Gazette: Vol.103, No.1, January 2019, pp.57-62 (71)

This article is a study guided by the question; how do the Commandants describe a command climate that encourages ethical behaviour among marines? And, how does a commanding officer develop a command climate that promotes ethical behaviour among marines? To answer these questions, an interview approach was used with eight Marine Corps Commandants.

MALAYSIA

Anwar's Rise, Fall and Rise Again: Tests in Malaysia's Succession/ Yang Razali Kassim

RSIS Commentary: No 196, 26 November 2018 (F31)

While Prime Minister Mahathir rebuilds the country, his designated successor, Anwar Ibrahim, is laying the ground for the agreed political transition in about two years' time. The recent election in Anwar's party had, however, taken a surprising turn.

MARITIME SECURITY

Submarine close encounters/ Tim Fish

Asian Military Review: Vol.26, Issue 8, December 2018, pp.06-09 (60)

The burgeoning need for submarines in Asia Pacific is outstripping the region's capacity to produce them. The article discusses how the rapid expansion of China's People's Liberation Army Navy contributed to the submarine procurement race.

UNITED STATES

From many, one/ Kathleen Burk

History Today: Vol 69, No. 1, January 2019, pp.30-37

At the beginning of the 20th century, there were 16 empires of varying size and reach. At the end of the century, there was just one: the United States. How did this happen and what role did Britain play in smoothing America's path to global hegemony?

WAR

Ethics and War: A Critical Intervention/ Thomas Gregory

Millennium: Vol.47, No.2 January 2019, p.309-320 (39)

This article reviews three recent books on the ethics of war by Adil Ahmad Haque, Maja Zehfuss and James Eastwood. Defending more conventional accounts, Haque sets out to develop a normative framework that can be used to assess, clarify and refine the existing rules. Zehfuss and Eastwood, by contrast, argue that the invocation of ethics may work to legitimise, normalise and obscure the effects of this violence. This article suggests ways in which these texts might help to reinvigorate debates about ethics and war, opening up lines of inquiry that were previously foreclosed.

All journal articles listed in this bulletin are available at MINDEF Library & Info Centre

MINDEF Library & Info Centre Block 232, Bolkiah Garrison Ministry of Defence BB3510 NEGARA BRUNEI DARUSSALAM

URL: http://www.mindef.gov.bn/library

Tel: +673 2385588

e-mail: library@mindef.gov.bn